CITY WELL ACCEPTED.

The deep well was accepted by the city yesterday afternoon and Contractor Allison was given a draft for $9,678, the entire cost of the well. The water supply of the well, after a thorough test, did not fall below 200 gallons per minute, and the city engineer and members of the city council are in hopes the well will develop a greater output which will almost supply the city during the summer months.

Mr. Allison wishes to take this opportunity for thanking the city council for their many courtesies, and says he has never been in a more hospitable place or met more congenial people than during his stay in Bryan. Mr. Allison returned to his home in Corsicana last night, but will return to Bryan in a few days to conclude his business in this city.

CARRANZA TROOPS OUTRAGE AMERICANS

Telegram Signed by Americans Does Not Indicate Nature of Offense.

[By Associated Press.]
Washington, May 15.—The Villa agency here gave the State Department a telegram today signed by five Americans, charging Carranza troops committed outrages in Panuco, near Tampico. The nature of the outrages was not specified.

New York, May 14.—The apparently established use of deadly gases as weapons of war—which the British authorities now feel bound to admit as the only means of meeting German methods—is another instance of the utter contempt with which the once vaunted Hague Convention gets kicked about in the present struggle. Both Germany and England signed the provisions of the convention which expressly forbid the use of such chemical aids to the destruction of life.

Now that rapid-fire guns that mow down regiments and shells that rip up whole countryside have begun to seem but paltry death dealers, the last bars of humanity are coming down. Chemists already find ways to make the free air of heaven fatal to the foe who breathes it. Another step and they will poison his wells, lakes, rivers and reservoirs. When the chemists have done their worst, the doctors can take up the good work and maybe liberate germs of disease and death to speed annihilation.

Who says science finds joy in saving life? She is every bit as proud of her power to destroy it.

WIFE AND OTHERWISE.

According to the president of Vassar College, woman's brain is just as good as man's. Inasmuch as she is continually beating him at his own game, as well as at hers, the statement seems quite conservative.—Kansas City Journal.

Judge—It seems to me I have seen you before.

Prisoner—You have, your Honor. It was I who taught your daughter to play the piano.

Judge—Thirty years!—Musical American.

"You say you saw me kiss your sister last night? Don't you suppose you could be mistaken?"

"Sure, I could—for a quarter. That's what the other fellows always give me!"—Chicago News.

Again "the greatest battle of the war." Millions are spent. Millions are killed. Inches are lost and gained.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"One thing dat keeps de world 'um goin' ahead faster," said Uncle Eben, "is de fact dat a man kin allus make mo' money foolin' people dan he kin educatin' 'em."—Washington Star.

She—George, dear?
He—Yes, mine own?
She—Why don't you write me some love letters like they read in court? Is it that you don't trust me?—Kansas City Star.

I am a man: what concerns man must concern me.—Terence.

"Nobody likes America."
"Yet we feed 'em."
"Well, nobody ever saw a popular boarding house keeper."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

He gazed pityingly on the listless drug store clerk, leaning against the soda counter.

"Haven't you any ambition?" he queried, kindly, and all that.

"No," he replied with brightening intelligence, "but I have something just as good."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Solomon had no reason to get cheery because he was the wisest man. Who wouldn't have been if he had a thousand wives to advise him.—Florida Times-Union.

A bank should be cleaned out by the janitor, not by the cashier.—Judge.
